UCLA Fertility and Reproductive Health Center

The UCLA Fertility and Reproductive Health Center manages complicated problems related to infertility, polycystic ovary syndrome, miscarriage, endometriosis, early ovarian insufficiency, abnormalities of menstruation, congenital malformations of the female reproductive tract, and other reproductive problems of women. It also provides counseling and treatment regarding the risk of transmitting genetic disorders to offspring. All of its physicians are reproductive endocrinologists, trained by the American Board of Obstetrics and Gynecology, who offer women and their partners a collaborative approach to health care, using cutting-edge, state-of-the-art diagnostic tests and therapies integrated with other UCLA specialists.

All services are comprehensive, compassionate and individualized, based upon mutual respect and the needs and preferences of the couple. Services offered by the UCLA Fertility and Reproductive Health Center include medical and/or surgical management of the above problems and all aspects of assisted reproductive technology, including In Vitro Fertilization (IVF), embryo and oocyte cryopreservation, assisted hatching, intracytoplasmic sperm injection (ICSI), and preimplantation genetic diagnosis (PGD).
